Volume 1

“It is not the critic who counts, not the man who points out how the strong man stumbled, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, and spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement; and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.”

Theodore Roosevelt

HISTORY OF RICHMOND TECHNICAL INSTITUTE

Under the Community College Act passed in 1963 by the North Carolina General Assembly, a system of comprehensive community colleges, technical institutes and industrial education centers was created to operate under the State Board of Education.

Any history of Richmond Technical Institute must record a steady growth since the school was established. Today, nearly all facilities are housed under one roof, a modern all-new structure completed in the spring of 1967. More new buildings are planned for the future.

Richmond Technical Institute was established in 1964 by the North Carolina Department of Community Colleges upon recommendation of Gov. Terry Sanford's Commission on Public Education beyond the High School Level. The need for a local school was determined by Dr. C. Horace Hamilton through a survey of business, education, civic and industrial conditions. Richmond County voters gave the bond election an overwhelming approval.

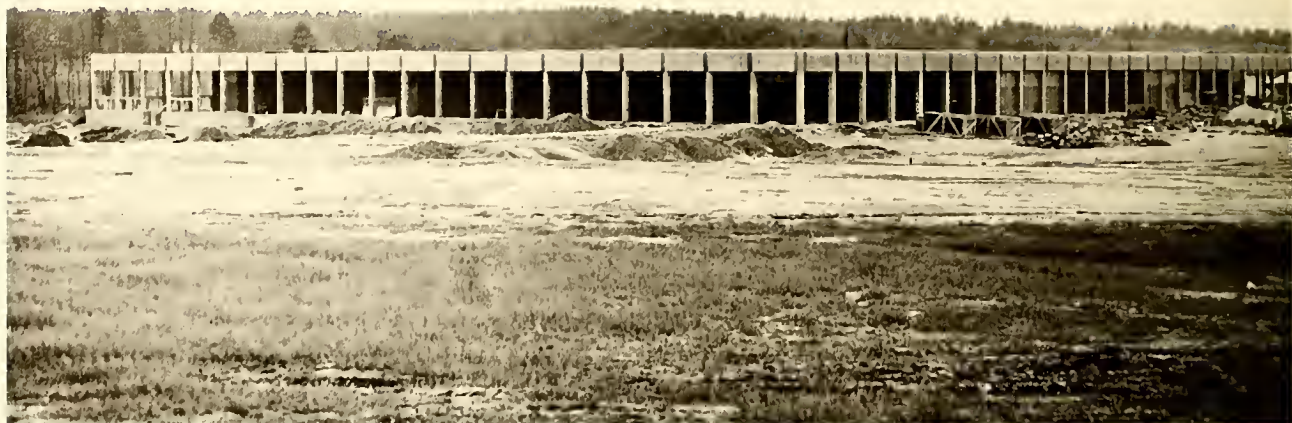

Samuel D. Morgan of Raleigh was selected by the Board of Trustees to be Richmond Technical Institute's first president. Site selection for a permanent campus took place soon after President Morgan assumed his duties. The present structure is located on this site, between Rockingham and Hamlet on U.S. Highway 74.

The first building was started in the late spring of 1966 but the school did not wait for that to begin classes. In much the same way that a church consists not of a building but of members who attend, Richmond Technical Institute was a vital educational factor in the Sandhills area long before a permanent campus existed.

On July 1, 1965, Richmond Technical Institute assumed administrative control of the Practical Nurse Education program affiliated with Scotland Memorial Hospital in Laurinburg.

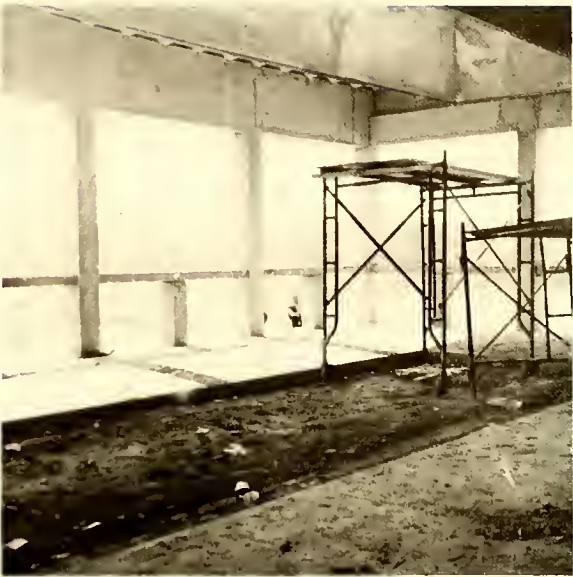

Extension courses in many subjects and basic education for adults in Richmond and Scotland Counties were soon underway, all in temporary quarters. The Fundamentals Learning Laboratory opened in temporary quarters in the fall of 1965. Perhaps most significant, the first fulltime curriculum students began classes in temporary quarters in the fall of 1966, well before the first permanent building was ready for occupancy.

RTI Soon to Open

A dream come true is fast materializing on the outskirts of Hamlet. Richmond Technical Institute is soon to open to students on Highway 74, just West of the city limits.

Trucks began unloading furniture yesterday afternoon, so that RTI president Sam Morgan and his staff can begin putting their offices to use. Telephone lines have been installed and will be connected as soon as the old building adjacent to Richmond Memorial Hospital in Rockingham is vacated.

Having a hard time concealing his excitement, Morgan breathlessly announced to newsmen yesterday: "We are moving in, y'all come to see us!"

All work at RTI is far from complete, but will be done in stages. One of the big obstacles to be hurdled is paving of the parking lot and lighting it.

Landscaping is still to be done, but it is in the works when funds are available, Morgan pointed out.

But staff members are on hand and students will soon be filing in to begin classes. What they see will be a pleasing sight to sore eyes.

Educators of the area are being invited to tour the building on May 22, one of the first groups to do so. However, the first organization other than the actual RTI trustees, to see what will make the Institute tick are those on the Hamlet City Council.

Invited to a luncheon hosted by the Rotary Club at noon Tuesday, May 16 are representatives from the Lions Club, senior Woman's Club, Jaycees, Garden Club, Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Junior Woman's Club.

Luncheon will be served in the student lounge, through arrangements with Greene's Restaurant.

Richmond Technical Institute Taking Shape West of Hamlet

Slowly but surely, Richmond Technical Institute is taking shape on a hillside just outside Hamlet on Highway 74 West.

No target date has been firmly fixed, but indications are that dedication ceremonies could be held next April -- if not sooner.

When RTI opens for business in Hamlet, Sam Morgan will be occupying the president's office. Morgan has drawn praise across the state for his direction of the institute's program.

Veeder - Root manufactures counting devices.

"There is in industry a great need for trained technicians," Stauble said.

"It isn't everybody who can go on to college. There are a lot of men who want to work with their hands . . . and become leaders in industry."

The Veeder-Root executive has urged local business and government leaders to do what they

of Community Colleges, in which new or expanding plants may receive special aid from the state in training new employees.

RTI in New Bldg.

THE DATE MAY 16 should be a red-letter one in the history of Richmond Technical Institute. It was on that afternoon the first organized group from Hamlet, new home of the institute, toured the magnificent structure and saw firsthand the facilities it will offer students in coming months.

As RTI president Sam Morgan pointed out that day, the institute is still not wholly completed, but it was obvious that he was as pleased as a child with a new toy at Christmas as he led local civic and business leaders through the sprawling building.

10 "The beginning is the most important part of the work"—an ancient quotation from the works of Plato. Written centuries ago, it applies to us even today. The distance was nothing; it was the first step that counted. Our first step was made with courage and enthusiasm. Through a great deal of vigorous work, we have made giant steps toward growth since our beginning in 1964 as evident in the latest step of our growth, accreditation by The Southern Association. Although we are justly proud of our past, we realize the hard work and effort it will take to continue in the path we have started. The progressive steps we have made in the past are merely stepping stones to the future.

And on to the present . . .

Dedication

To a man who is sensitive to the needs of the student body and to the individual student. A man who never hesitates to take time to chat with anyone who stops him. To a man who is interested in the total institution of which we are a part. We are indeed fortunate to have a man such as Joseph H. Nanney. So, with extreme appreciation for the services and contributions to Richmond Technical Institute, the yearbook staff sincerely dedicates THE VALIANT 1970 to the Acting President, Mr. Joseph H. Nanney.

Business Administration

The Business Administration curriculum is designed to prepare the student for employment in one of many occupations common to business. Training is aimed at preparing the student in many phases of administrative work that might be encountered in the average business.

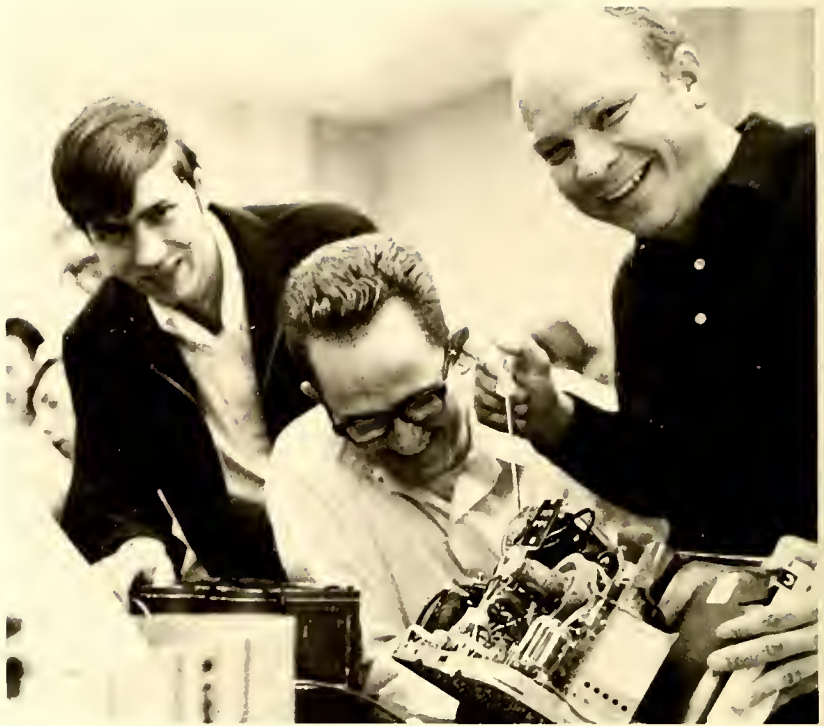

Electronic Data Processing Business

The processing of data by electronic equipment has created vast changes in business and industry. This curriculum gives the student an understanding of principles of business operation and prepares the graduate for job entry as a computer programmer with a broad background enabling him to progress in his field.

Electronics Technology

This curriculum provides a basic background in electronic-related theory with practical applications of electronics for business and industry. Courses are designed to develop competent electronics technicians who may take their place as an assistant to an engineer, or liaison between the engineer and the skilled craftsman.

Executive Secretary

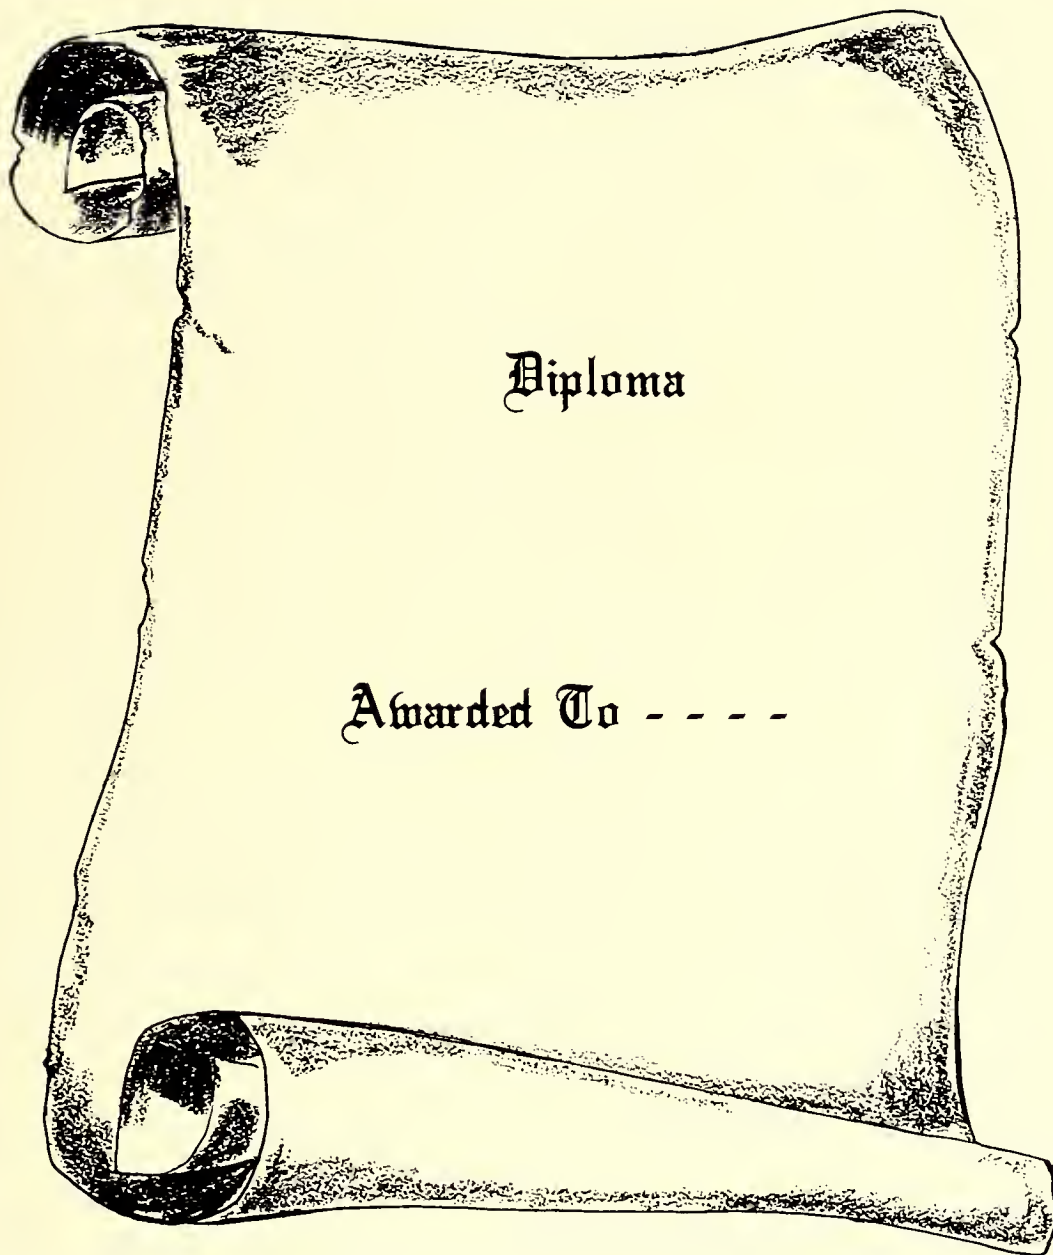

The Executive Secretary curriculum offers the students the necessary secretarial skills in typing, dictation, transcription, and terminology for employment in the business world.

Mechanical Technology

The Mechanical Technology curriculum offers two options dealing with the application of fundamentals to the design and manufacturing fields. Drafting and design prepares the graduate to work in the area between the design engineer and the production phase. Manufacturing emphasizes the development of knowledge and skill necessary to handle many production and manufacturing problems.

Vending Machine

Architectural Drafting

Architectural Drafting is designed to enable an individual to advance rapidly in drafting proficiency upon entering the field of work. Draftsmen are concerned with the preparation of drawings for the construction of buildings and related structures.

Automotives Mechanics

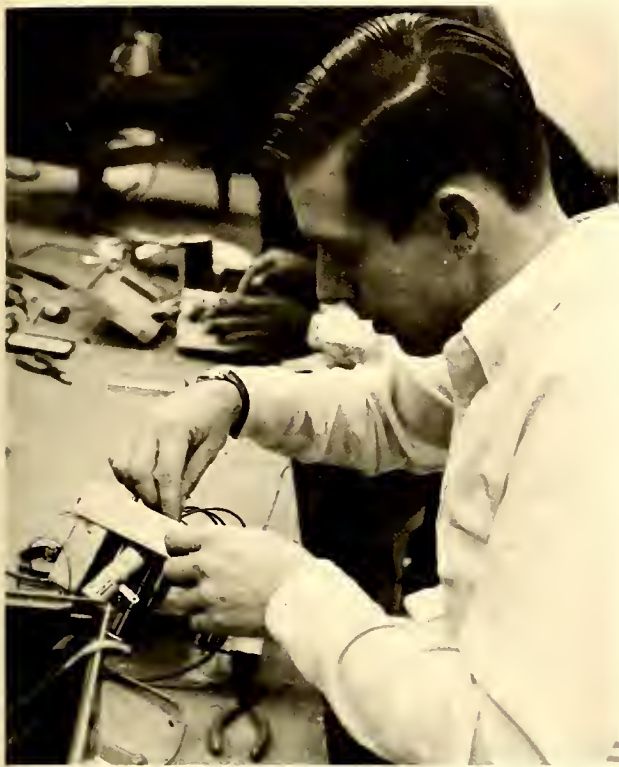

Automotive Mechanics provides an educational program for developing the basic knowledge and skills needed to inspect, diagnose, repair or adjust automotive vehicles. This curriculum provides a basis for the student to compare and adapt to new techniques for servicing and repair as vehicles are changed year to year.

Machinist Trade

The Machine Department affords a challenge to those who have an aptitude and interest in mechanics. The comprehensive course offers experience in mechanic work which includes the fields of tools, jigs and fixtures. This type of training requires learning skills in the use of precision measurement instruments. This department is well equipped with up-to-date industrial type machine tools and is correlated with the other mechanical technology departments.

Radio Television Service

This curriculum provides an educational experience which will give knowledge and skills involved in the installation, maintenance and servicing of radio, television, and sound amplifier systems.

Practical

Nursing Education

The aim of the Practical Nurse Education program is to make available to qualified persons the opportunity to prepare for participation in the care of patients of all age groups. The course of study is one year in length and provides both classroom and supervised hospital practice.

Vending Machine

This curriculum provides the necessary knowledge and skills to service, install, maintain, and repair all types of vending machines. This program will also help the repairman to develop as a mature citizen who is socially and economically competent.

In the fall of 1969 concerned parties from eight N.C. Technical Institutes met and formed the Piedmont Athletic Conference of Technical Institutes. At the initial meeting an executive committee was appointed as a governing body for the Conference. Each member school has a representative on the executive committee and is allowed one vote in all matters concerning league functions.

Member schools in the conference are: Richmond Tech., Rowan Tech., Guilford Tech., Durham Tech., Central Carolina Tech., Technical School of the Alamance, Randolph Tech., Forsythe Tech.

At the time of this publication the R.T.I. Cagers are 4-3 in the Conference and making a strong bid for a division championship and a berth in the post season tournament.

Intramurals

Intramurals at RTI is fast becoming popular. Hardly a day goes by that you can't see someone on the volleyball court, the tennis court, or just shooting a little basketball. Although there are no organized intramurals at RTI, as of yet, there is a large number of students who are interested in forming teams to compete among themselves for the various championships that will evolve from intramurals. With the increased student interest in intramurals and the vigorous and healthy atmosphere that we have here at RTI toward athletics, a program of intramurals will be shortly coming.

Work-Study

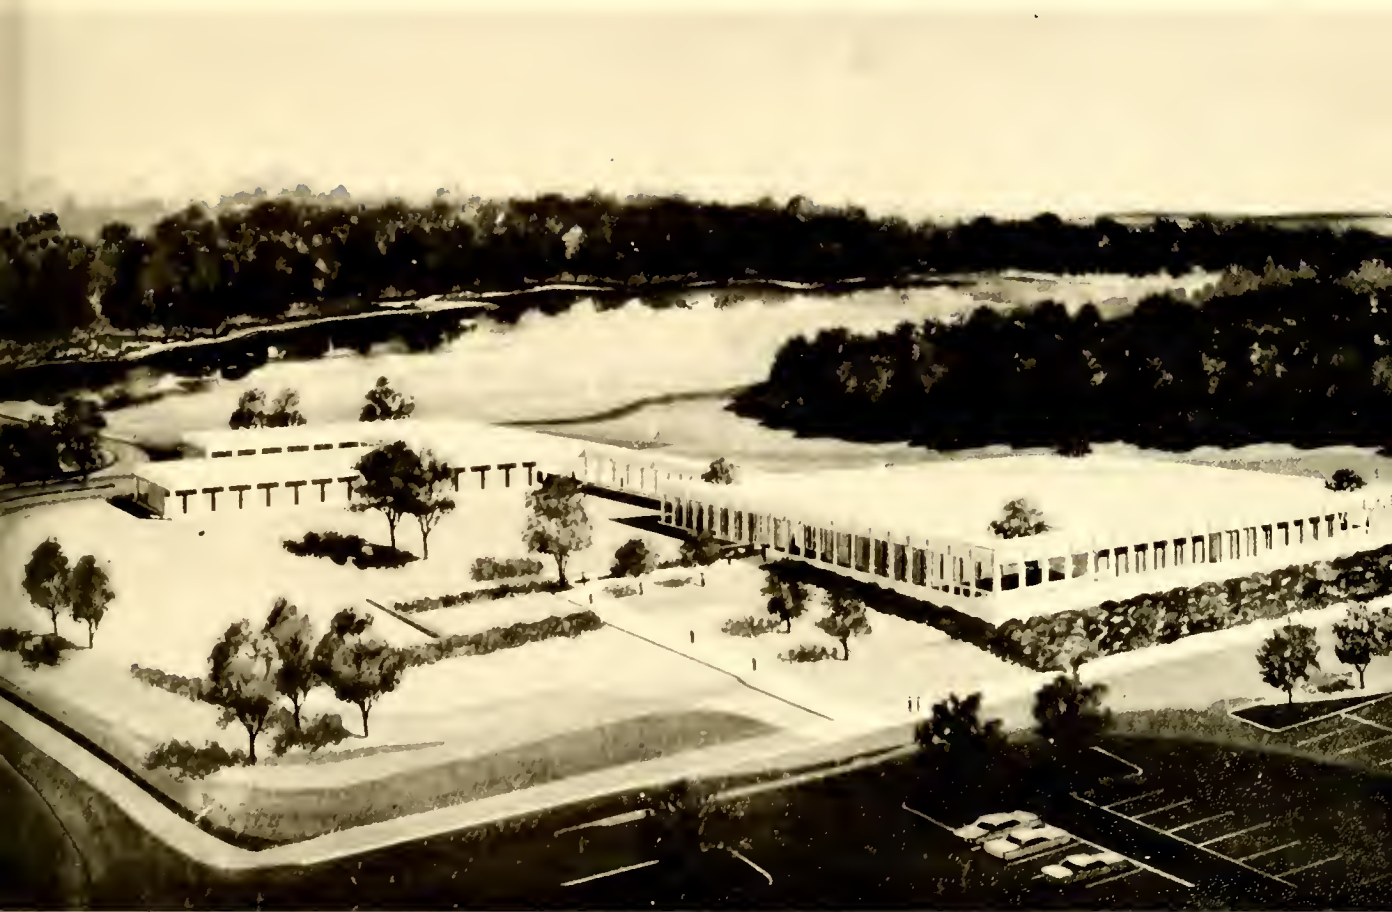

Many students are employed in part-time jobs in the Student Work-Study Program to assist teachers and administrators. They perform tasks such as maintenance of lab equipment, operate duplicating equipment, clerical and typing jobs, and many other tasks which give them valuable work experience as well as funds for their education.

Future

You know what the old saying is, "that all good things must come to an end," and we, the staff of the first yearbook at RTI, hope that this book to this end has been a "good thing" to you.

To those who have been of assistance to me in my times of confusion I say a special thank you.

To Miss Mary Alice Turner, our advisor, for her valuable assistance.

To Mr. Ed. Goldston, who always seemed to be around or within calling distance when I needed him.

To all the yearbook staff members—a special thank you—especially to Diane Parker, our Co-Editor, Algra Langley, Aaron Little, Advertising Manager, and Donnie Jenks, Business Manager—all have spent many long hours in the preparation of this—your yearbook.

TWO GREAT WINS!

Tartan 34s First in Class in Port Huron/Mackinac and Marblehead/Halifax Races!

There are few tougher tests for auxiliary sailboats than these two major long distance races . . . one in the Great Lakes, the other in the Atlantic. Competition is superior. The "hot" stock boats are there, many with factory skippers and crew.

That's why the victories by these Tartan 34s (handled, of course, by their owners) speak so eloquently for themselves.

When you become interested in winning, long distance or short, you should become interested in one of our three proven performers. Tartan 27, Tartan 34 and Tartan 37. Just drop us a line and we'll respond with the industry's most comprehensive boat data.

We're a people company

Our business is textiles. But we're a people company, too.

Springs has always been known for the importance it attaches to people. This attitude shows in our profit-sharing plans, our system of 26 employee cafeterias, our medical program with five full-time doctors and 28 registered nurses who staff a dozen medical clinics. And in many other ways.

Out of this concern for people has grown a strong feeling of mutual respect. Don't take our word for it. Ask the 19,500 people who work in Springs' 22 plants in North and South Carolina.

For information about career opportunities with Springs Mills, write Manager of Recruiting, Fort Mill, S. C. 29715. Springs is an equal opportunity employer.
